Important Information:

All hikes mostly follow marked trails and paths, some in alpine terrain. They do not present any particular technical difficulties (see hike description). However, a certain level of basic fitness, stamina, sure-footedness, and good physical condition are required to undertake these hikes.

Appropriate equipment, suitable clothing, and especially sturdy, preferably ankle-high footwear are essential. Hiking poles can be helpful. The maximum altitude reached is approximately 2,200 meters. The hiking guide is responsible for route guidance but not for the personal safety of the participants. Any participant who leaves the group does so at their own risk. The hiking guide cannot be held responsible for this.

I agree that photos taken during the hikes in which I am recognizable may be used by the Tramin Tourist Office for promotional purposes.
